The International Association of Law, Ethics, and Science, and the French - Latin American Academy on Bioethics and Ethics of Sciences in partnership with the French National UNESCO Commission are delighted to invite academics, researchers, and professionals to submit papers for the international conference on "Can Artificial Intelligence Contribute to Justice?", to be held on October 17, 2024, in Buenos Aires. This event aims to explore the challenges and opportunities presented by the integration of artificial intelligence (AI) into the judicial system.

Topics of Interest:

- Simplification of Judicial Procedures: Impacts of AI on the dematerialization of processes and on procedural deadlines control.

- Innovative Practices for Legal Professionals: The evolution of legal work in the digital age, including procedure management and the interpretation of judicial decisions.

- AI's Contribution to Judicial Organization: Integration of Legal Tech in the judicial process, AI's role in judicial workflow management, and future perspectives.

- Ethics, Law, and AI: Ethical and legal considerations on the use of AI in justice, including risks of bias and discrimination.

Interest expressions must be sent to Secretary General of the Association, Mr. christian.byk@gmail.com by March 15th 6pm.
